Sellers Comments

Dating back to 1523, this exceptional Grade II Listed home is widely regarded as one of Romsey's oldest surviving properties, presenting a rare opportunity to acquire a tangible piece of Hampshire's history. Rich in character and provenance, the home retains remarkable period features. There are strong historic ties to Romsey Abbey, with salvaged stonework from the Abbey's former outbuildings thoughtfully incorporated into the fireplace following their dismantling during the reign of Henry VIII. Original flagstone floors, believed to have been hand carved by local masons, are now inset into the sitting room walls as a distinctive architectural feature, while a traditional bread oven remains tucked beneath the staircase.

Ground Floor

The entrance hallway provides access to the principal sitting room and the ground floor bedroom. The generously proportioned sitting room incorporates a dining area, with a fireplace forming an attractive focal point and adding warmth and character to the space. A door leads through to an inner hallway, where stairs rise to the first floor and access is provided to the kitchen/breakfast room. The kitchen is fitted with a comprehensive range of cupboards and drawers, complemented by integrated appliances including an oven, fitted hob with extractor canopy over, dishwasher, fridge and freezer. There is ample space for a table and chairs, creating an ideal everyday dining area, with doors opening directly onto the rear garden. The utility room features a traditional butler sink and space for a washing machine. From here, a door leads to the ground floor WC, while a further door provides additional access to the garden. The ground floor bedroom offers notable flexibility, with access to its own kitchen, bathroom and external entrance, it could function as a self-contained annexe, ideal for multi-generational living or guests. Alternatively, it would serve equally well as an additional reception room.

First Floor

The first floor landing provides access to the double bedrooms, the shower room, airing cupboard and loft space. All first floor bedrooms are generous double rooms, the shower room is fitted with a white suite comprising WC, wash basin and walk in shower.

Outside

The gardens are a particular feature of the home, with the overall plot size extending to 0.20 of an acre. Paving adjoins the rear of the home, with the remainder of the garden being laid to lawn with established hedging and trees. A second world war bomb shelter remains in the garden, another historic feature adding to the homes unique character. A covered side access provides handy storage space and a door opens onto Middlebridge Street.
