DESCRIPTION

Believed to date back to circa 1539, Tudor Rose is an exceptional Grade II listed cottage of great historic significance. The current owners have carried out an extensive and sympathetic renovation, carefully blending period charm with modern convenience. Character features including exposed beams, original panelling, stonework and an impressive period ceiling sit comfortably alongside a newly fitted kitchen and stylish bathroom.

The cottage has also benefited from a series of recent upgrades, including the installation of an air source heat pump in 2024, providing heating and hot water, along with underfloor heating in the kitchen and bathroom. A fully hardwired Wi-Fi mesh system ensures excellent connectivity throughout, while the ridge thatch was renewed in 2025. To the rear, the property enjoys a larger than expected private garden, offering a peaceful retreat with elevated views across Dawlish and towards the surrounding hills.

ACCOMMODATION

An impressive wooden front door opens into a characterful entrance hallway with cobbled flooring, setting the tone for the property's rich history. From here, a doorway leads into the newly fitted kitchen, which features a range of bespoke units with integrated appliances and benefits from underfloor heating. Off the kitchen lies the family bathroom, finished to a high standard and comprising a shower over bath, low level WC and wash basin, with a large storage cupboard to the rear.

At the front of the property is a superb sitting room, full of charm with wood panelling, exposed beams and a magnificent stone fireplace housing a woodburning stove. A feature stone spiral staircase rises to the first floor, where the spacious main bedroom boasts a remarkable period ceiling and an open stone fireplace. A second double bedroom adjoins, part of which forms a small flying freehold over the neighbouring property.

OUTSIDE

To the rear of the cottage lies a surprisingly generous garden, arranged over several levels. A stone path leads through a lawned area with a feature pond to a raised seating terrace, perfectly positioned to enjoy far-reaching views over Dawlish and towards the hills. The garden provides a tranquil and private outdoor space, rarely found with a cottage of this age and character.
