SITUATION

Nestled between the highly sought-after coastal destinations of Carbis Bay and Hayle, the picturesque village of Lelant enjoys an enviable position with direct access to the sweeping Porthkidney Sands and the tranquil Hayle Estuary. This idyllic location perfectly balances natural beauty with convenience, offering a serene coastal lifestyle within easy reach of some of Cornwall's most desirable attractions.

To the East lies the charming town of St Ives, world-renowned for its golden beaches, artistic heritage, and vibrant atmosphere. Encircled by a collection of spectacular beaches—each with its own distinctive character—St Ives truly offers something for everyone. Porthmeor Beach, home to the iconic Tate St Ives, opens out onto the Atlantic and is a favourite among surfers, while the sheltered coves and soft sands of St Ives Bay provide an ideal setting for family days by the sea. Outdoor enthusiasts will find endless opportunities for adventure, from invigorating water sports and coastal walks along the South West Coast Path to leisurely birdwatching around the estuary. For those who prefer a round of golf, the prestigious West Cornwall Golf Club, located less than a mile from Lelant, offers a challenging links course paired with spectacular estuary and sea views. At the heart of St Ives, narrow cobbled streets weave between whitewashed fishermen's cottages, boutique shops, and acclaimed restaurants serving the finest local cuisine. The town's historic granite harbour, alive with the gentle bustle of fishing boats and framed by its own sandy beach, remains a quintessential symbol of Cornish charm.

Travel connections are equally convenient. The scenic St Ives Bay Line links Carbis Bay and St Ives directly to the mainline London-to-Penzance railway at nearby St Erth, providing effortless access to the wider region while allowing residents and visitors to enjoy one of Britain's most beautiful coastal train journeys.
