A wider range of facilities and commercial venues are available in the regional centre of Barnstaple, about eight miles to the north-west. Both Exmoor National Park to the north east, Dartmoor National Park to the south and the renowned North Devon coastline are all within easy reach by car.

Description

Ardlui is a fascinating property believed to date from the mid 16th Century as an open hall house with subsequent alterations over the following centuries. There are many fine features typical of its age including smoke blackened thatch, winder staircase and an interesting gallery in the rear wing of the cottage.

The property forms a significant part of the village, both in its character and appearance in the context of the village Square and the history of Chittlehampton itself.
