SITUATION

The property occupies an enviable elevated location set on the southern slope of Meldon Hill about a mile from Chagford. The open moorland is within easy walking distance, offering superb walking, riding and leisure pursuits, together with stunning scenery.

The well known Moorland town of Chagford offers an excellent range of shops, wine merchants, art galleries, restaurants, cafes and inns. As well as excellent leisure and sporting facilities including an open air swimming pool, cricket pitch, tennis and bowling club, together with modern primary school. From the town there is easy access to the A30 dual carriageway and to the Cathedral city of Exeter with its M5 motorway, mainline rail and international air connections.

DESCRIPTION

Yellands Gorse is set in a stunning, enviable elevated position, offering superb panoramic views from both the house and land over the countryside towards the hills of Dartmoor, taking in Haytor and Fernworthy Forest. Accessed down its own private drive and set within its own gardens and paddocks of 9.2 acres. The property itself consists of a 1930's bungalow, which is in need of considerable updating and improvement. Alternatively the vendors have acquired conditional planning permission for a larger replacement dwelling on the same site under Dartmoor National Park application no 0059/24. Drawings, elevations and floorplans are all available online. The current property is predominantly double glazed with an oil fired Aga to the generous sized kitchen and a cosy woodburner to the sitting room. there are two bedrooms, a bathroom and utility room. Formal gardens surround the property and there is a useful building, offering stabling, storage and a carport. The land is currently split into four paddocks and would be suitable for grazing, equestrian or leisure interests. The land in total extends to approximately 9.2 acres.
