DESCRIPTION

Brai Wood totals is a mostly coniferous wood with a small number of native broadleaf trees and extends in total to approximately 2.67 acres (1.08 hectares).

The woodland lies within the Exmoor National Park and is on a north-facing slope, within a sheltered valley. A woodland track adjoins the northern, eastern and southern boundaries and within the wood is a level glade which provides a perfect spot for camping or outdoor cooking.

Tree species include mostly Douglas Fir trees in addition to some hazel, a beech lined bank and further native broadleaf trees within the canopy. We are informed that within the slopes of the southern side are a series of natural water springs.
