

HARDINGS

Thames Street
£1,350 PCM

Nestled in the heart of Windsor on the charming Thames Street, this delightful one-bedroom apartment boasts stunning views of Windsor Castle.

Living on Thames Street places you within easy reach of Windsor's rich history and vibrant community. You will find an array of shops, cafes, and restaurants just a stone's throw away, as well as the stunning Windsor Castle and the picturesque River Thames, perfect for leisurely strolls.

The property comprises of open plan kitchen/living area, modern bathroom and spacious double bedroom. It is situated on the first floor, and is accessed directly from Thames Street.

Available at the end of May, offered unfurnished.

Features

- One bedroom
- Stunning Castle View
- Permit parking available
- Modern Bathroom
- Available end of May
- Town Centre Location
- Unfurnished
- Front entrance
- Open plan kitchen/ living area

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems in the community. The UK government has set out a strategy for mental health care in the 21st century (Department of Health 1999). This strategy emphasizes the need to provide a range of services to meet the needs of people with mental health problems, including community mental health teams, crisis services, and aftercare services. The strategy also emphasizes the need to involve people with mental health problems in the development and delivery of services.

One of the key challenges in the development and delivery of mental health services is the need to ensure that services are accessible to all people who need them. This is particularly true for people who are homeless, who are often at the greatest risk of mental health problems.

One of the ways in which the UK government has sought to address this challenge is by setting out a strategy for the development of community mental health teams (Department of Health 1999). This strategy emphasizes the need to provide a range of services to meet the needs of people with mental health problems, including community mental health teams, crisis services, and aftercare services.

One of the key challenges in the development and delivery of mental health services is the need to ensure that services are accessible to all people who need them. This is particularly true for people who are homeless, who are often at the greatest risk of mental health problems.

One of the ways in which the UK government has sought to address this challenge is by setting out a strategy for the development of community mental health teams (Department of Health 1999). This strategy emphasizes the need to provide a range of services to meet the needs of people with mental health problems, including community mental health teams, crisis services, and aftercare services.

One of the key challenges in the development and delivery of mental health services is the need to ensure that services are accessible to all people who need them. This is particularly true for people who are homeless, who are often at the greatest risk of mental health problems.

One of the ways in which the UK government has sought to address this challenge is by setting out a strategy for the development of community mental health teams (Department of Health 1999). This strategy emphasizes the need to provide a range of services to meet the needs of people with mental health problems, including community mental health teams, crisis services, and aftercare services.

One of the key challenges in the development and delivery of mental health services is the need to ensure that services are accessible to all people who need them. This is particularly true for people who are homeless, who are often at the greatest risk of mental health problems.

One of the ways in which the UK government has sought to address this challenge is by setting out a strategy for the development of community mental health teams (Department of Health 1999). This strategy emphasizes the need to provide a range of services to meet the needs of people with mental health problems, including community mental health teams, crisis services, and aftercare services.

One of the key challenges in the development and delivery of mental health services is the need to ensure that services are accessible to all people who need them. This is particularly true for people who are homeless, who are often at the greatest risk of mental health problems.

One of the ways in which the UK government has sought to address this challenge is by setting out a strategy for the development of community mental health teams (Department of Health 1999). This strategy emphasizes the need to provide a range of services to meet the needs of people with mental health problems, including community mental health teams, crisis services, and aftercare services.

11 High Street, Windsor, Berkshire, SL4 1LD,
T: 01753 833 118 | E: info@hardings.co.uk
www.hardings.co.uk

