Description

Enjoying a private setting in the heart of Langham, The Manor is an attractive Grade II listed period home, constructed of stone beneath a Collyweston slate roof. Dating principally from the early 17th century, with later additions, the property offers extensive accommodation extending across three floors, complemented by a detached three-bedroom cottage. Rich in character throughout, the house retains a wealth of original features whilst presenting an exciting opportunity to update a substantial village home of considerable character.

Approached via a sweeping driveway, the oak front door opens into a spacious reception room, immediately establishing the home's period charm. A stone fireplace forms a welcoming focal point, complemented by exposed beams overhead, fitted shelving and a stone mullioned bay window overlooking the front garden. Practical storage for coats and cloaks is neatly positioned by the entrance, while the oak principal staircase rises to the first floor.

Positioned to the right of the hall, the dual-aspect drawing room is centred around a handsome stone fireplace, while a stone mullioned bay window draws in natural light and enjoys picturesque garden views.

To the rear of the entrance hall, an inner hallway provides access to a utility room, fitted with a sink, oven, hob and plumbing for both a washing machine and tumble dryer. A ground-floor WC, boot room with fitted storage and a secondary entrance further enhance the practicality of this section of the home. A spiral staircase also rises from the rear hall, providing alternative access to the first floor.

The family room is positioned centrally within the house and leads through to the dining room, a bright dual-aspect space ideally suited to formal entertaining. French doors connect directly to the adjoining playroom, creating excellent flexibility for family life.

Situated to the opposite side of the entrance hall, the sitting room offers a more intimate reception space, boasting an open fireplace and views over the front garden through shuttered stone mullioned windows. From here, doors lead both to the playroom and to the garden room beyond.

The garden room provides a delightful space from which to enjoy views of the grounds throughout the seasons. A large picture window frames the garden beautifully, while exposed stonework and French doors opening onto the terrace create a connection between the indoors and out.

Adjoining the garden room and playroom, the kitchen is a bright triple-aspect room enjoying attractive views in every direction. Fitted with extensive cabinetry, tiled work surfaces and a central island providing additional storage, the room centres around a striking Aga with twin hot plates set within an exposed stone surround. A sink is positioned beneath a window overlooking the garden, while French doors open directly onto the dining terrace. With ample space for a breakfast table, the kitchen offers an inviting setting for informal family meals. A spiral staircase rises from the kitchen to a useful first-floor office, creating further flexibility within the accommodation.

Returning to the reception hall, and ascending the principal staircase, the first-floor landing provides access to the bedroom accommodation. To one side, two generous double bedrooms both benefit from ensuite facilities, one enjoying a dressing area and attractive stone mullioned bay window with window seat, while the other features deep-set windowsills and views across the grounds. The secondary staircase also connects conveniently to this part of the house.

The principal suite occupies a particularly attractive position, benefitting from fitted storage cupboards within the dressing area and an ensuite bathroom fitted with a bath and shower over. A stone mullioned bay window with integrated window seat provides an attractive feature and enjoys views across the surrounding gardens.

Further along the landing are two additional bedrooms, served by two separate bathrooms. One bedroom benefits from fitted wardrobes, while the other is a spacious triple-aspect room enjoying excellent natural light and views across the gardens.

A staircase rises to the second floor, where substantial attic accommodation offers excellent versatility. Subject to any necessary consents, these rooms could provide additional bedroom accommodation, games room, home office space or further storage, allowing the property to adapt to a variety of future requirements.
