Landscaped gardens, courtyard, triple garage and a self contained studio/annexe.

'Cross Farm' formerly a dairy farm of note until its closure and redevelopment circa 2005 resulting in this, the farmhouse and four further conversions. Following our clients' purchase in 2018, substantial investment has been undertaken culminating one of the finest farmhouses boasting sizeable accommodation whilst retaining it's character.

Worthy of special mention include the spectacular dining hall measuring nearly eight metres by five, decorated with oak panelling, a limestone fireplace and an oak staircase, open-plan oak dining kitchen complete with 'Aga' housing five ovens and three hotplates. Finally a studio / annexe located above the triple garage providing ancillary accommodation to the main house which would be ideal for dependent relatives, young adults or an investment return.

The main farmhouse consists of two storey accommodation comprising a traditional entrance porch with an oak front door opening into the dining hall which currently features a magnificent twelve seated dining table, however, a larger table can be accommodated, rear vestibule and cloakroom with decorative tiling, lounge with feature 'inglenook' and stove, sitting room again with a feature fireplace, family room, dining room with two sets of 'French' doors opening into the dining kitchen boasting an oak kitchen and utility. The first floor includes the principal suite with lobby, bedroom, dressing room and en-suite, bedrooms two and three served by a 'Jack & Jill' en-suite, bedroom four and the main bathroom accessed from both the landing and bedroom. Externally, the property is accessed via electric gates into a walled courtyard with a triple garage facility, landscaped gardens and a self contained studio / annexe sited above the garages providing ancillary accommodation.

An internal inspection is essential to not only appreciate the above, but the period detailing as well as present day technology such as under floor heating and surround sound.
