In the coastal village of Mumbles, daily life is shaped by the shoreline, independent cafés and easy access to the sweeping views of Swansea Bay. Sandy beaches at Langland and Caswell are close by, while local landmarks such as Oystermouth Castle and the wider beauty of the Gower Peninsula provide a distinctive coastal and countryside backdrop. Well regarded schools, village amenities and links into Swansea add to the area's strong sense of convenience and community.

This detached four bedroom home sits within a quiet residential setting, offering well balanced accommodation across approximately 1460 square feet and a plot of around 0.09 acres.

The ground floor provides a welcoming hallway leading to a cloakroom and a series of interconnected living spaces. A comfortable lounge sits alongside a separate dining room, while the kitchen opens into a conservatory that draws in natural light and connects the home to the garden.

Upstairs, four bedrooms are arranged off the landing, supported by a family bathroom. The principal bedroom benefits from an en suite, offering a private and restful space.

Externally, the property features driveway parking for two vehicles with access to a garage, along with a lawned front garden. The rear garden is a particular highlight, with a decked seating area leading onto lawn surrounded by established planting. A greenhouse and summer house sit within the garden, providing further versatility and quiet retreats within this well considered outdoor space.
