Plymouth

Plymouth, Britain's Ocean City, is one of Europe's most vibrant waterfront cities. Located in one of the most beautiful locations imaginable, Plymouth is sandwiched between the incredible South West coastline and the wild beauty of Dartmoor National Park. Plymouth is 37 miles south-west of Exeter and 190 miles west-south-west of London, between the mouths of the rivers Plym to the east and Tamar to the west where they join Plymouth Sound to form the boundary with Cornwall, it is also home to one of the most natural harbours in the world. To the North of Plymouth is Dartmoor National Park, extending to over 300 square miles, which provides excellent recreational facilities.

The city is home to more than 260,000 people, making it the 30th most populated city in the United Kingdom and the second-largest city in the South West, after Bristol and has a full range of shopping, educational and sporting facilities. There is mainline train service to London (Paddington) and to Penzance in West Cornwall.

There's everything that you would expect to find in a cool, cultural city, with great shopping, arts and entertainment. But there's also hundreds of years of history to uncover, from Sir Francis Drake and the Spanish Armada to the Mayflower sailing in 1620, to a city rebuilt following the Blitz during World War II. With easy access to Exeter and its International Airport and a mainline train station giving direct access to London and a ferry port offering sea crossings to both France and Spain.

Plymouth is governed locally by Plymouth City Council and is represented nationally by three MPs. Plymouth's economy remains strongly influenced by shipbuilding and seafaring including ferry links to Brittany and Spain, but has tended toward a university economy since the early 2000's. It has the largest operational naval base in Western Europe – HMNB Devonport.

Tamerton Foliot

Tamerton Foliot is a village situated in the north of Plymouth. Situated near the confluence of the rivers Tamar and Tavy, the village is situated in a valley, the stream of which quickly broadens out to a large estuarine creek, which passes under a bridge beneath the Tamar Valley Line railway. Tamerton Foliot railway station, now a private property, is situated at the end of a two-mile road and is on the edge of a heavily wooded riverside nature reserve. It had been built in 1890 by the Plymouth, Devonport and South Western Junction Railway on its line from Lydford to Devonport.

The village has around 3,000 residents and features three pubs, a convenience store with a post office inside, and a takeaway. There is a primary school - Mary Dean's Church of England Primary School - and St Mary's parish church. If it wasn't so close to the city, Tamerton would have the feel of a true country village, but the buses are regular and it only lies 15 minutes away from Derriford Hospital.

The community feel in village remains strong. It's a lovely little village. There are a lot of nice walks around. Within the span of around 100 yards, there is the King's Arms, the Queen's Arms, and the Seven Stars, which is one of the oldest pubs in Plymouth. Only a stone's throw away from Dartmoor.

Locals welcome any new person to the village. There is a May Carnival which is really popular. Residents in Tamerton Foliot seem to be incredibly proud of their carnival, which is usually held on the first Saturday in May, and for good reason: the carnival has been running in some capacity since the early 1900s and grew out of fairs and markets dating back to medieval times. There is a procession through the village accompanied by the Lord Mayor of Plymouth, and one of the local children is crowned the May Queen or King. Whether Tamerton Foliot is part of Plymouth or not, the people who live there love living there.
