Plymouth

Plymouth is a city where the best of Devon living comes together, offering an enviable blend of coastline, countryside, history and vibrant city life. Set between the River Tamar and the beautiful waters of Plymouth Sound, life here naturally revolves around the water, with opportunities for sailing, paddleboarding, kayaking, fishing and enjoying leisurely walks along the waterfront. The city's extensive coastline provides beautiful places to explore, from peaceful waterside walks and sandy beaches to dramatic coastal scenery, while Dartmoor and the wider Devon countryside are within easy reach for those who enjoy walking, cycling and the great outdoors.

There is also a wonderfully varied social and cultural side to Plymouth, with independent cafés, restaurants, bars and pubs, alongside theatres, galleries, live music, sporting events and a year-round programme of activities. The historic Barbican provides a particularly vibrant setting for enjoying a meal or drink beside the water, while Royal William Yard offers an impressive waterfront destination for dining, relaxing and meeting friends. For families, there are excellent opportunities to enjoy parks, beaches, leisure facilities and attractions, while professionals benefit from the city's growing business community and excellent connections across Devon, Cornwall and beyond.

From enjoying a morning coffee overlooking the Sound and an evening stroll along the Hoe, to weekends exploring the coast or escaping into the countryside, Plymouth offers a lifestyle that combines the energy and convenience of city living with the freedom and relaxation of living by the sea. It is this unique combination of location, lifestyle, community and natural beauty that makes Plymouth such an appealing place to call home.

The Barbican

The historic Barbican and Sutton Harbour are the heart of the city's heritage with the oldest buildings and the greatest number of historical stories. It's also a place where an eclectic cuisine mix of Italian, Greek, Turkish, Japanese, Chinese, Thai, Indian, Himalayan, Mexican and British restaurants may all be found! Around the Barbican, a vibrant place of cobbled streets, narrow lanes and more than 200 Listed Buildings, many of them Tudor and Jacobean, offer a wide range of cosmopolitan boutique shops, galleries, pubs, cafes and restaurants set amidst picturesque scenery. The main street of Southside Street is home to the world famous Plymouth Gin Distillery, the building dating from the early 1400s and a former monastery inhabited by Black Friar Monks. Antique stores, galleries, boutique shops and cafes thrive on Southside Street, a draw to the thousands of coach tour visitors that pass through the Barbican every year. Sutton Harbour is perfectly placed to make the most of all Plymouth has to offer, from unparalleled historic landmarks to some of the city's largest and liveliest family attractions. The National Marine Aquarium, the largest aquarium in the UK with over 40 sharks, is at the entrance to the harbour, and visitors can also take boat tours to learn more about the local marine environment - or even catch a fish and learn how best to cook it. The lively waterfront culture of Sutton Harbour offers a welcome like no other, with unique, independent shops interspersed with a diverse range of first-class restaurants, cafes and bars. Visit the famous Mayflower Steps from which the Pilgrim Fathers are believed to have left England aboard the Mayflower for a new life in America in 1620, discover Plymouth's maritime heritage with the one-mile Sutton Harbour Heritage Trail, or see the sights from two wheels and take advantage of the two National Cycle Routes right on the harbour's doorstep. Other places of interest in the Barbican include the Elizabethan House, an old house built in the early 16th century, now used as a museum and the studio gallery of the late painter and eccentric Robert Lenkiewicz, who lived and worked on the Barbican for many years deriving much of his inspiration and income from the local community.
