About The Property

Looking for a coastal home rich in maritime history with direct estuary access? This stunning home combines a grand six-bedroom period house, sitting in around 2.46 acres including landscaped grounds and a stunning boat house with mooring, all set on a beautiful stretch of the River Teifi near Cardigan Bay, sitting in a remarkable position on the Teifi estuary, shaped by a long connection with West Wales's maritime past.

Originally part of an estate that once stretched between St Dogmaels and Poppit, the house was occupied by shipowners and sea captains who chose the site for its commanding outlook across the water. From here, they watched vessels set off towards Europe and the Americas, following the curve of the river as it opens out towards Cardigan Bay and the sea at Gwbert. The landscape and the water remain at the heart of this coastal home, giving the property a timeless sense of place.

The house itself is a substantial double-fronted six-bedroom period property set over three floors, thought to date to the mid-1800s, and carries that blend of grandeur and warmth often found in homes shaped over generations. The portico entrance leads into a wide reception hall where original proportions and character features hint at the building's past. There is a useful cloakroom, stairs to the first floor and doors to the main rooms. To one side is a large double-aspect sitting room with a fireplace and French doors opening to the sun terrace, creating a relaxed connection between indoors and the riverside gardens. Alongside sits the dining room, another generous space with views across the water and its own French doors leading outside.

At the rear, the kitchen and breakfast room has the scale needed for day-to-day living, fitted with cabinetry, double oven, hob and extractor, as well as room for informal dining. The adjoining utility/side porch links neatly with the outside space and parking area.

Details Continued:

The first floor holds the principal bedroom with en suite bathroom, together with two further bedrooms. Both of the larger rooms sit at either end of the house and enjoy double aspects taking in views up and down the estuary, emphasising the building's orientation towards the water. A separate bathroom with shower serves this floor. Stairs continue to the upper level where three further bedrooms are found, including a nursery-style room fitted out for multiple beds, along with another bathroom. Beneath the house is a substantial cellar accessed externally, currently used as a workshop, storage and boiler room.

Boat House:

A key feature is the impressive boat house positioned near the water's edge. The ground floor offers space for storing a boat, complemented by its own slipway into the river. Above it sits a comfortable open-plan studio style accommodation designed for making the most of the surroundings. Here, the open-plan sitting/bedroom area with wood-burning stove and a fitted kitchen section creates a relaxed place to spend warm evenings or guest weekends. Bi-folding glazed doors open fully onto the balcony, framing the water and bringing the outside in. A separate shower room completes the layout. Opposite the boat house is a mooring for a yacht, further reinforcing the maritime lifestyle the property offers.

Externally:

The grounds add significantly to the lifestyle offered here. Sitting in around 2.46 acres, a sweeping driveway leads to the house, (this is shared with three other properties). The property has its own designated parking to the side, and the drive continues to the front of the property. There is a further driveway going off down to the boathouse which offers more parking space if needed. To the front of the house a striking cast stone staircase runs down through a series of landscaped levels towards the lower gardens. These include an orchard, a croquet lawn, bowling green, rose garden, an obelisk, a stone

Doric temple and a pond with fountain. The rare Elm tree on the grounds is a lovely reminder of the estate's heritage, and the general layout encourages spending time outdoors, whether for gardening, hosting or simply enjoying the setting.

With the river running quietly along the boundary and views stretching to the sea at Gwbert, this is a coastal setting that balances calm, space and heritage. Cardigan town is around four miles away, keeping day-to-day amenities within easy reach while allowing this property to feel like its own private corner of the estuary. The combination of character, history and direct access to the water makes this one of the most distinctive homes along this stretch of West Wales coastline.

For those drawn to coastal living shaped by heritage, views and access to the water, this home offers a lifestyle that is difficult to match.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE AREA:

St Dogmaels, Poppit Sands and Gwbert sit along one of the most appealing stretches of the West Wales coastline, where the Teifi estuary meets Cardigan Bay. St Dogmaels offers a friendly village atmosphere with its abbey ruins, weekly producers' market and riverside walks, while Poppit Sands is well known for its long, sandy beach and calm, open feel that's ideal for families and coastal strolls. Just across the water, Gwbert adds a different angle with its clifftop outlook, scenic shoreline and places to eat overlooking the sea. Together, these three spots create a lovely mix of community, scenery and coast, all within easy reach of Cardigan town.
