About The Property

A traditional three-bedroom detached house sitting within easy reach of Newcastle Emlyn town, this property blends character features with the scope to adapt and modernise. The house offers well-laid-out accommodation over three floors, along with useful outside space including a garage, workshop and summer house.

The property opens into a small vestibule where the original half-tiled walls and mosaic flooring give a nod to its period origins. A glazed door leads through to the main hall, which links the principal ground floor rooms.

At the front of the house lies a comfortable living room featuring a fire surround with inset coal-effect electric fire. The room benefits from a front-facing window that draws in plenty of daylight and a radiator providing warmth during cooler months. Next door, the dining room offers another pleasant reception area, again with a front aspect window and an attractive wooden fire surround set against a marble hearth and backing. It makes for a straightforward space to share meals or to use as a flexible second sitting area.

Towards the rear of the property sits the kitchen and breakfast area, fitted with a good range of wall and base units under a complementary worktop. A 1.5 bowl stainless steel sink and drainer, electric hob, oven and extractor fan are all in place, together with tiled flooring and space for a dining table. The practical layout works well for everyday cooking and social use, and a uPVC door opens directly to the rear garden.

Adjoining the kitchen, a snug offers another relaxed sitting space. With a window overlooking the garden, a radiator, and a traditional fire surround, it's an area that could be enjoyed as a small lounge or perhaps a study. Beyond, the rear porch provides access to the garden and connects to the utility room. This useful space has base units, plumbing for a washing machine, a stainless steel sink, and houses the Worcester oil-fired central heating boiler.

Continued:

Upstairs, the first-floor landing splits across two levels and gives access to three bedrooms and the bathroom. The main bedroom sits at the front of the house, featuring two windows which create a bright atmosphere and an ornamental fireplace as a subtle reminder of the home's character. Bedroom two also faces the front and includes a radiator, this room has been adapted via a storage area to gain direct access to the family shower room. While bedroom three overlooks the garden to the rear.

The bathroom is fitted with a three-piece suite comprising a corner shower enclosure with electric shower, pedestal wash basin and low flush WC. Tiled walls, a heated towel rail and doorway through a storage area to access bedroom 2

A steep staircase rises from the landing to the second floor, where the attic rooms are currently divided into three sections. These areas provide clear potential for conversion, subject to the necessary consents, offering an opportunity to expand the living space or create additional bedrooms or a home office.

Externally:

Outside, the property provides plenty of practical space with tarmac forecourts to both the front and rear, offering generous parking. The rear forecourt is reached through a gated driveway running alongside the attached garage, which also benefits from a workshop and a separate W/C and continuing on to a further detached spacious garage/workshop at the back that could fit a campervan or even a boat with ease. A timber-built summer house, fitted with power and lighting, sits beyond and provides a useful area for relaxing or for small gatherings in the warmer months. From here, a concrete driveway leads up towards the elevated garden areas with a separate garage is located, and the rest is lawn, where open views stretch across the River Teifi and towards the ruins of the old castle, giving the setting a sense of character and connection to the town's history.
