About The Property

Looking for a recently renovated 3–4 bedroom detached home with flexible accommodation, off-road parking and countryside views in a rural West Wales village? Fully modernised throughout and set over a split-level layout, this well-proportioned home offers a new kitchen and bathrooms, generous lounge, integral garage and gardens overlooking the surrounding woodland and countryside.

Set within the rural village of Abercych, this detached 3–4 bedroom home has recently undergone an extensive programme of renovation and modernisation, creating a fresh, neutrally finished property ready for its new owners to add their own furniture, style and finishing touches.

The work carried out includes a new kitchen, bathroom and shower room, new windows and doors (except external garage doors) and new electrics, giving the house a considerable update both practically and cosmetically. Its split-level design also makes the accommodation particularly interesting, with living space arranged across three levels and the option of using the ground-floor office as a fourth bedroom if required.

A sloping tarmac driveway leads down towards the house, providing off-road parking for two vehicles and access to the integral single garage. The garage has double timber doors and offers useful parking, storage or workshop space.

The main entrance opens into the hallway, with the kitchen/diner positioned on this level. This is a good-sized room with plenty of space for a dining table alongside the kitchen area. The recently fitted kitchen has a simple shaker-style finish, complemented by wood-effect work surfaces and tiled splash-backs, with an integrated electric oven and hob and space for further appliances. Windows to the front and rear bring natural light into the room and look towards the garden and a door with step down leads into the integral garage (with space and plumbing for a washing machine, and double wooden doors out to the front drive).

Also accessed from the main hallway is the recently fitted shower room, which includes a shower enclosure, wash hand basin and WC.

Steps lead down to the lower level of the house where the layout opens into a further hallway. From here there is access to the office/bedroom four, a useful additional room which could equally work as a home office, occasional bedroom, hobby room or playroom depending on requirements.

The main lounge is also found on this level and is one of the standout rooms in the house. Generously proportioned, with plenty of room for both seating and additional furniture, it has windows looking out towards the greenery beyond and French doors opening directly to the outside. A chimney breast and fireplace provide a natural focal point within the room, while the neutral decoration and new carpeting give a straightforward base for the next owners to make their own.

The French doors open onto the gravelled area alongside the house, where there is scope to create a seating or patio area immediately outside the lounge. Subject to any necessary consents, this part of the property could also lend itself to the addition of a conservatory or similar garden room in the future.

A rear hall/porch provides another useful entrance into the house and opens to a small gravelled area where there is space for outdoor seating.

From the main hallway, stairs rise to the first-floor landing and three bedrooms. Bedroom one is particularly generous, with two windows looking across the surrounding greenery and plenty of room for bedroom furniture.

Bedroom two is another well-proportioned room, while bedroom three is smaller and would work well as a child's bedroom, nursery or second home office. Both bedrooms two and three have built-in storage.

Completing the first-floor accommodation is the newly fitted family bathroom, finished with neutral tiling and comprising a bath with shower over, wash hand basin and WC, and a built in storage cupboard.

Externally:
Externally, the property sits on a sloping plot which makes the most of its elevated position and outlook. Gravelled areas immediately around the house provide relatively low-maintenance outside space, while steps lead down into the lower garden.

The garden has scope for further landscaping and personalisation, with established planting, stonework and mature boundaries already providing a framework to work from. At the lower level is a lawned area bordered by mature beech hedging, with the garden looking towards woodland and the surrounding West Wales countryside. The setting to the rear is an important part of the property, giving a leafy outlook from both the house and garden.

Overall, this is a home where much of the major updating has already been completed meaning the property is ready to move into while still leaving scope outside for the next owners to shape the gardens and seating areas to suit their needs. The location of the property provides easy access to lots of lovely countryside walks and public footpaths through woods and fields, without the need to take the car.

Heating is provided by oil-fired central heating via an external combi boiler.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE AREA:
Abercych is a rural village in the Cych Valley, close to the point where Pembrokeshire, Ceredigion and Carmarthenshire meet. Surrounded by woodland and rolling countryside, the village follows the valley of the Afon Cych, which joins the River Teifi nearby. Despite its rural surroundings, the property is well placed for reaching a number of villages and market towns across this part of West Wales.

The village has a strong connection with the surrounding countryside and is home to the popular riverside Nag's Head Inn, while nearby Cenarth is known for its waterfalls and salmon leap on the River Teifi. Cenarth also provides useful everyday amenities including a village shop and filling station, pubs and places to eat.

For a wider range of shops and services, the market town of Newcastle Emlyn is within easy driving distance, while Cardigan lies further west and provides supermarkets, independent shops, schools, cafés, restaurants and leisure facilities.

The position also provides access to the wider Cardigan Bay coastline, with beaches and coastal villages within driving distance, making this an appealing base for combining rural West Wales living with access to the coast.
