About The Property

Looking for a detached bungalow with distant sea views, driveway parking, an attached garage and a sunny enclosed garden in one of the most popular coastal villages in West Wales? This well-kept Aberporth home offers two bedrooms, a recently updated kitchen, air source heating, solar panels and a lovely rear deck for sitting out, with Cardigan Bay close at hand.

Set within the ever-popular seaside village of Aberporth, this detached bungalow offers a very appealing mix of practicality, comfort and coastal character. With sea views enjoyed from both the front and rear gardens, the setting is one of the real attractions here, especially for anyone looking for a manageable home close to the coast in West Wales. Aberporth remains one of the best-known villages along this part of Cardigan Bay, with its beaches, coastal walks and everyday amenities all helping make it such a sought-after place to live.

From the front, the property has a tidy and well-presented appearance, with an area of lawn and a driveway to the side providing parking for two vehicles and leading to the attached garage. A path runs down the other side of the bungalow, giving access to the kitchen door and on through to the rear garden, making the layout outside both practical and easy to manage.

The hallway sits at the centre of the home and gives access to all principal rooms, which works particularly well in a bungalow of this style. The accommodation feels straightforward and well arranged, with a nice balance between living space and bedrooms and has access to the loft.

The lounge is a comfortable main reception room with a front-facing window drawing in good natural light and making the most of the distant sea view. A fireplace with tiled hearth and wooden surround creates a focal point, currently fitted with a gas fire, and the room has a warm, homely feel that would suit day-to-day living just as well as weekends by the coast.

Details Continued:

The kitchen has been recently updated and gives the property a more modern edge. It is fitted with matching wall and base units in a smart contemporary style, along with a breakfast bar for casual dining or morning coffee.

Integrated appliances include a Bosch electric oven, hob and extractor, along with a built-in Hotpoint microwave, while there is also a sink and drainer and space for a freestanding fridge freezer. A door to the side provides direct access out of the house.

There are two bedrooms. Bedroom one is a good main room with space for wardrobes and the added benefit of a door opening straight out onto the raised deck and rear garden. That connection to the outside works really well and gives the room an added sense of space. Bedroom two overlooks the rear garden and would make a very comfortable single room or a small double, depending on requirements.

The bathroom is fitted with a bath, wash basin and WC, with an obscured window bringing in natural light. It is simple, bright and functional, serving the bungalow well in its current form.

The attached garage provides useful extra storage and also houses the hot water tank. For many buyers, that extra enclosed space will be a real advantage, whether for storage, hobby use or simply keeping outdoor and beach equipment tucked away.

Externally:

Outside, the rear garden is a particularly attractive part of the property. Enclosed by fencing and mature hedging, it feels nicely sheltered and enjoys a sunny aspect that makes the raised decking area especially appealing for outdoor dining or sitting out in the afternoon sun. Beyond the garden, there are distant views towards the sea, which add another reminder of how close the coastline is here. The combination of deck and garden gives the outside space a very usable feel without becoming too demanding to maintain.

The addition of solar panels and air source heating is another strong point, bringing a more energy-conscious element to the property and adding to its overall appeal.

For anyone searching for a coastal bungalow in Aberporth, this is a solid and well-presented home in a very popular part of West Wales, with sea views, useful parking, a garage and a sunny enclosed garden all helping it stand out. To arrange a viewing and see how it all comes together, please get in touch.
