About The Property

Set on the edge of Cardigan town and enjoying far-reaching views across the River Teifi, this detached four-bedroom bungalow offers well-proportioned accommodation, a balcony positioned to make the most of the outlook, and a terraced garden that drops gently away from the property. The position feels nicely removed while still being practical for everyday amenities, which is always a strong combination in this part of West Wales.

The approach is via a gated and enclosed driveway providing parking for around four vehicles, along with access to the integral garage. From here, the bungalow opens into a wide and welcoming central hallway that gives a good sense of space straight away and provides access to all the principal rooms.

The living room sits to the front of the property and is a generous, comfortable space with a large picture window framing the river and surrounding countryside. It's easy to imagine this being the main everyday room, with plenty of space for full lounge furniture while keeping the view firmly centre stage.

The dining room enjoys sliding doors opening directly onto the balcony. This is a real highlight of the house and works particularly well for entertaining or relaxed evenings, with enough room for a proper dining table and a natural connection to the outside space. The balcony itself is wide and usable, positioned to overlook the river and the established garden below.

The kitchen sits just off the dining room and is fitted with a modern range of wall and base units, ample worktop space and integrated appliances. A large window over the sink looks out across the valley, which makes this a kitchen that feels bright and practical rather than tucked away. A separate utility room adds useful overflow storage and laundry space, with a door leading outside.

There are four bedrooms in total, offering flexibility for families, downsizers wanting guest space, or anyone needing a home office. The main bedroom is a particularly good size and benefits from a smart, updated shower room and a built-in wardrobe with space for a TV. The remaining bedroom is a comfortable double or generous singles, the 2 of the smaller rooms are currently used as an office and a second living room/snug, all served by a modern family Shower Room finished with contemporary tiling and fittings.

Outside, the terraced garden follows the natural slope of the plot and has been arranged into defined levels, making it manageable while still offering interest and variety. The outlook across the River Teifi changes with the seasons and gives the garden a real sense of connection to its setting. From the balcony down to the lower levels, there are plenty of spots for seating, pots and planting.

Overall, this is a well-balanced bungalow in a position that's hard to replicate, combining views, space and convenience on the edge of Cardigan and within easy reach of the coastline of Cardigan Bay.
