About The Property

Looking for a beautifully updated home with NO onward chain and within walking distance of Cardigan and close to the Ceredigion coastline? This spacious, high-spec property on Gwbert Road combines excellent design with flexible living and private garden space, all in a sought-after part of West Wales.

Set back off the Gwbert Road, this detached property is a real one-off—set in one of the most established and well-regarded parts of Cardigan, and only a short drive from the coastlines of Cardigan Bay. Behind electric gates and with space for several vehicles, it offers an excellent balance of smart kerb appeal and generously proportioned internal space.

Originally built decades ago but significantly extended and upgraded in 2003, the house has been thoughtfully maintained and improved by the current owners over the years. It now includes a striking kitchen-dining area with an Orangery roof lantern, top-of-the-line fittings, and seamless connection to the rear garden through sliding patio doors. Inside and out, the layout works well for both day-to-day living and welcoming guests, with adaptable spaces and a strong sense of quality throughout.

The front entrance leads into a wide central hallway, where oak flooring runs through to the hall into the main lounge. This reception room is substantial, yet still feels calm and comfortable, with a bay window and a gas coal-effect fire as a focal point. There’s space here to relax or entertain, but the real heart of the home is to the rear—where the impressive kitchen-dining room stretches across the back of the house.

Details Continued:

This space has clearly been designed to work hard for modern living. The kitchen includes an extensive range of wall and base units, including a built-in pantry & twin drinks fridges, with a granite work top over and inset sink with drainer, an American fridge-freezer with a drinks dispenser, an integrated dishwasher and a 6 ring gas oven range with extractor over. Unit lighting, considered materials, and a stylish breakfast bar bring it all together. Adjoining this is a dining area defined by natural light from the overhead Orangery roof lantern with self-cleaning glass and electric windows. A wood-burning stove set at eye level in one corner adds character, while wide sliding patio doors provide a broad opening to the garden beyond.

access out to the side. A good-sized storeroom sits adjacent (formerly the garage), housing the Worcester mains gas boiler. There's also a downstairs shower room—fully tiled and finished to a good standard—along with a built-in airing cupboard.

There are also two bedrooms on the ground floor, offering flexibility to suit a variety of lifestyles. One is currently used as a study and was formerly a bedroom, with good proportions and plenty of natural light. The other is a ground floor bedroom, complete with fitted wardrobes and patio doors out to the garden.

Upstairs, the sense of space continues. The main bedroom is generously sized and includes double doors through to a dedicated walk-in dressing area, ideal for storage and clothing. Across the landing,

Off the central hall is a practical utility room, with plumbing for a washing machine and the main bathroom includes a bath with shower fittings, heated towel rail and contemporary finishes. A third bedroom on this level offers not only a bright sleeping area but also its own walk-in dressing space, fitted with high quality wardrobes and clever use of storage.

Externally:

Externally, the property is well thought out and low maintenance. The front features a raised decking area and gravelled garden, with gated side paths on both sides of the house giving access to the rear garden, there is also practical parking space with room for several vehicles behind the gated entrance. The rear garden is a combination of patio and decking which offers a beautiful seating area, tucked away from the main road and offering the perfect space for entertaining or relaxing. There's also space for a hot tub and a handy store shed with a sink to the side (which would make ideal changing room or sauna room if budgets allow.)

Altogether, this is a house that offers something quite special. A proper, grown-up home with practical features, well-considered space, and a location that continues to hold its value. The care and investment that's gone into the property over the years is evident throughout, and the result is a house that's ready for new owners to simply settle in and enjoy.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE AREA:

From a location point of view, it's hard to overstate the appeal. The centre of Cardigan is only a short walk away, meaning shops, cafés, schools and other essentials are all within easy reach. For those drawn to the outdoors, the coastline of Cardigan Bay is only a five-minute drive—offering everything from walking trails and beaches to wildlife and open sea views. This part of West Wales has long been in demand for good reason: it combines convenience and coast in a way that's increasingly hard to find.
