About The Property

Looking for a beautifully kept dormer bungalow set within about 0.6 acres of thoughtfully landscaped gardens and small woodland, with far-reaching countryside views and excellent access to Cardigan and the Ceredigion coastline? This charming home combines flexible accommodation, strong energy credentials and gardens that are genuinely special, all within easy reach of Cardigan Bay and the best of West Wales.

This superb detached dormer bungalow occupies a semi-rural position just outside Cardigan, enjoying open countryside views and a wonderful sense of space both inside and out. Set within approximately 0.6 acres of established landscaped grounds and mature small woodland, the property offers flexible two- or three-bedroom accommodation, alongside a carefully planned garden that reflects years of thoughtful design and care.

The approach immediately sets the tone, with a gated driveway sweeping up from the road, over a small cattle grid, to a gravelled parking area providing ample off-road parking, together with a spacious detached garage. From here, the gardens wrap around the house, offering a series of connected pathways that gently lead through colourful borders, seating areas and points of interest, all designed to showcase colour and structure throughout the seasons.

The accommodation begins with an entrance porch, opening into a welcoming hallway with wooden flooring, under stairs storage and fitted book shelving. The kitchen sits to the front of the property, fitted with matching wall and base units topped with oak work surfaces, and enjoys a lovely outlook over the front garden and countryside beyond. There is an induction hob, electric double oven and generous storage, with an opening leading through to the sitting room and breakfast area.

This L-shaped living space forms the heart of the home, combining everyday comfort with character. A log-burning stove set on a slate hearth provides a natural focal point, while French doors open directly onto the front patio, linking the interior seamlessly with the gardens. A wide picture window draws in the surrounding greenery and long views across open farmland.

Also on the ground floor is a flexible dining room, which works equally well as a third bedroom if required. This room benefits from French doors opening onto the front patio, making it ideal for guests or multi-generational living. A further double bedroom sits to the rear, along with a well-appointed shower room featuring tiled flooring, fitted shower, floating wash hand basin and towel radiator.

Stairs rise to the first floor, where a light landing with Velux windows and useful eaves storage leads to the main bedroom and family bathroom. The bedroom enjoys dual-aspect windows, exposed wooden beams and far-reaching views across the surrounding countryside. The bathroom is particularly striking, featuring a freestanding roll-top bath, pedestal basin, bidet and WC, complemented by tiled flooring, part-tiled walls and roof light.

Externally:

Externally, the grounds are a standout feature. The gardens have been planned as a series of connected spaces, combining formal and informal planting with meandering pathways that encourage exploration. There are paved seating areas positioned to make the most of the outlook, a feature pond, potting shed and a glazed red cedar summerhouse, allowing the garden to be enjoyed well beyond the summer months.

A particularly rare addition is the small, established woodland area, home to mature trees and wild shrubs, once forming part of the neighbouring Caemorgan Estate and Manor House. This area adds a sense of history and natural diversity that is seldom found with modern homes.

Immediately to the rear of the house sits a high-spec utility outbuilding, offering far more than basic storage. Fully equipped with base units, ceramic hob, stainless steel sink, plumbing for white goods and housing the oil-fired boiler and hot water tank, it effectively functions as a second kitchen and practical workspace. Solar thermal panels contribute to hot water provision, supporting the property's EPC rating of C and helping to keep running costs in check.

Despite its rural setting, the property remains well connected, with the market town of Cardigan only a short drive away, offering a wide range of shops, schools and services. The beaches and coastal paths of Cardigan Bay are within around ten minutes, making this a strong option for those looking to balance countryside living with easy access to the coast and wider West Wales.

Properties offering this level of garden design, flexibility and setting so close to Cardigan are increasingly hard to find. Early viewing is strongly recommended to appreciate the grounds, outlook and overall feel of this lovely home.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE AREA:

Cardigan is a thriving and well-regarded market town offering a strong mix of independent shops, cafés, schools and everyday amenities, all centred around the River Teifi. From Cae Morgan Road, the town centre is just a short drive away, making day-to-day life practical while still enjoying a more rural setting. The stunning coastline of Cardigan Bay is also within easy reach, with sandy beaches, coastal paths and harbour villages all close by, giving this location an excellent balance of countryside living and access to some of the best scenery in West Wales.
