About The Property

Looking for a well-kept home with low-maintenance gardens and modern efficiency? This three-bedroom dormer bungalow in Crymych offers flexible space, off-road parking and solar panels—all set within easy reach of both village life and the coast of Cardigan Bay.

Positioned on a cul-de-sac within the village of Crymych, this well-proportioned dormer bungalow offers a straightforward and easy-to-manage setup, ideal for a range of buyers. From the outside, it presents a clean and practical layout, with parking to the front on a tarmac driveway, and low-maintenance gardens to both the front and rear.

Inside, the feel is light and balanced, with a good flow between the main living spaces. Access to the ground floor is via the porch, with a door into a generous lounge at the front of the house, where a wide double-glazed window lets in plenty of natural light. A fitted electric fire creates a focal point, while stairs to the first floor are tucked neatly to one side. Glazed double doors open directly into the kitchen-dining room, linking the two areas comfortably.

The kitchen has been fitted with a straightforward range of units and worktops and includes space for essential white goods along with plumbing for a washing machine, and space for an electric oven (the extractor is already in place). The dining space easily fits a table and chairs, while a double-glazed, sliding patio door opens straight out to the rear garden—making this room just as functional as it is sociable.

Also on the ground floor is a double bedroom with a window overlooking the back garden and a cupboard housing the hot water tank. The family bathroom is finished with a corner bath and a separate shower cubicle, along with a vanity wash basin and WC. A built-in airing cupboard adds to the practicality of the space, and a frosted window keeps things bright while maintaining privacy.

Details Continued:

Upstairs, there are two further double bedrooms—both with Velux windows bringing in daylight and open sky.

Each room is well sized, offering flexibility for family life, home working, or guest space. Built-in storage on the landing adds to the overall functionality without compromising floor space.

Externally:

Externally, the property is set up with ease of upkeep in mind. The front features a tarmac driveway and a gravelled garden area. A side path leads through to the back, where the garden is enclosed and level—mainly gravel with a paved patio and a decked area that makes a great spot for a morning coffee or evening drink. A useful garden shed is also included, offering storage for tools or outdoor gear.

In terms of services, the property benefits from Air source heating and owned solar panels mean running costs are likely to be lower than average, which is a real bonus for those wanting an energy-conscious home.

Altogether, this is a well-kept and sensibly arranged home in a tucked-away position. Whether as a first-time buy, a low-hassle home for downsizing, or a neat option for a small family, it offers a good mix of space, condition and location. Its straightforward layout and modern energy setup make it especially appealing to those looking for something simple and functional—while still being in reach of the beauty of West Wales and the coast beyond.
