"The house is close to Manor Woods Valley where we have loved going for walks, and Zion community arts centre, where we've seen live comedy and music. There are a couple of other smaller green spaces nearby too. Due to being situated uphill, the place has some lovely views of Bristol and Ashton Court. Parson Street train station is a stone's throw away and it takes about 20 minutes to walk to North Street. We've also appreciated living on the edge of the countryside and taken many trips out to places like the Mendips and Stanton Drew. In the summer, we enjoyed having drinks on the balcony and chatting with our neighbours down below and made the most of the big skies overhead. It's a perfect space for dinner parties, and there's gorgeous light in the living room in the mornings and the kitchen diner in the evenings."
