From the moment we moved in, this house has felt like home. Set back from the road and away from the hustle and bustle, it offers a wonderful sense of peace and privacy, while remaining within easy reach of everything Easton and the city have to offer.

Inside, the house feels remarkably spacious, with light-filled rooms that create an airy and welcoming atmosphere throughout. The abundance of storage is invaluable, while the basement provides a highly versatile space with endless possibilities.

One of the things we value most is the exceptional sense of community. Friendly, welcoming neighbours and a genuine spirit of support make this a place where people quickly feel at home and where neighbours truly look out for one another. Combining space, practicality and character with a tranquil setting and strong community spirit, this is a truly special place to call home.
