"This has been a renovation project of a home previously owned by the same family for many decades. Our goal was to make the layout more suitable for modern living and to carry out a significant upgrade throughout, making it ready for its next chapter as a cherished home. The neighbours on both sides have been friendly and helpful while all the hard work was completed, and the wider neighbourhood seems welcoming too. For example, people often leave items they no longer need on the wall at the front of their homes so that neighbours can help themselves. I think this local recycling and re-using is a really nice idea."
