"Homes have the potential to express the personality of those who live there in the choice of colour, pictures, and furniture.. When I first moved here, on the first day, before the furniture was unpacked, my sitting room painted in an uninspiring lime green and aubergine, received its first coat of teal, and from then on I wanted the rooms to express a particular mood or interest. But it's time now for the house to have another creative owner and a new perspective."
