"Sitting on the terrace at sunset, we always said that we could never get tired of that view and that's held true. But this home has been far more than just its view for us; it's been a sanctuary amongst city life, even though it also feels right at the heart of Bristol. From watching the hot air balloons cruise overhead to family hot tub time, we loved every moment in this very special place, and if we could have brought it with us we would!"
