My favourite thing about living here has been starting the day with a coffee in the garden. It feels like a little oasis – private, green and surrounded by trees, with the cycle path behind the garden meaning no road noise. The flat is full of character and tucked away from the bustle, but with Easton, Greenbank and St George's Park all on the doorstep, and easy access into the city. It's a rare combination of feeling connected to everything while still having somewhere calm to come home to.
