Property Overview

This charming property is a unique conversion forming part of a former chapel, located in the highly convenient Chapel House Court, right in the heart of Selby town centre. It combines historic architectural character with practical modern living, making it an appealing option for first-time buyers, investors, or those seeking a low-maintenance central home with excellent commuter access. This home offers a rare blend of heritage charm (exposed brickwork, unique arched features) and everyday practicality in one of Selby's most central spots. The allocated parking is a major bonus in a town-centre location, and the compact yet cleverly designed layout suits single occupants or couples perfectly. The home offers a strong appeal for those who appreciate character properties without the maintenance of a larger period home. Viewing is highly recommended to appreciate the light, style, and original features firsthand.
