Ravenswood is an outstanding Victorian red sandstone villa, occupying an enviable position within one of Uddingston's most prestigious addresses. Set along a private road, this distinguished family home enjoys an exceptional sense of privacy and exclusivity, while remaining within easy walking distance of Uddingston railway station and conveniently placed for access to the major motorway networks.

Rich in period character and impressive in both scale and presence, the property offers exceptionally generous and versatile accommodation extending to approximately ten principal apartments. The elegant interior has been thoughtfully arranged to accommodate the demands of modern family living while retaining the grandeur and character associated with a home of this period.

The accommodation includes five well-proportioned bedrooms, with the impressive principal bedroom benefiting from en suite facilities. A particular feature of Ravenswood is the abundance of reception space, with four to five public rooms offering considerable flexibility of use. These include an elegant formal dining room, ideal for entertaining, together with a selection of beautifully proportioned living spaces equally suited to formal occasions and relaxed family life.

At the heart of the home is a well-appointed cherry oak fitted kitchen, complemented by a range of quality German appliances and providing an attractive and practical setting for everyday living. Further enhancing the accommodation is a substantial cellar area, with convenient access and an abundance of useful storage space. This additional area further demonstrates the exceptional scale and versatility offered by the property.

Externally, a private driveway extends along the side of the villa, with gated access leading to the rear gardens and a detached double garage equipped with an electrically operated door. The gardens provide an attractive setting for this imposing period home and further contribute to the privacy and appeal.
