A nicely presented character cottage in the heart of Apsley.

Ground floor

The front door opens directly into a reception room featuring oak flooring, a bare brick fireplace with heavy oak beam mantel, and a functional wood burner. This leads into a dining room, also with oak flooring and fitted window shutters, which connects through to the kitchen. The spacious kitchen features a range-style cooker set into a former brick chimney breast, and provides direct access to the sunny rear garden.

First floor

On the first floor, there are two bedrooms, both with fitted window shutters. A beautiful Victorian-style bathroom featuring a roll-top bath, a high-level WC, a fireplace, and a wash hand basin set over a chest of drawers looks out to the garden. From the landing, a loft ladder leads up to a bright loft room with skylights and eaves storage.

The location

The local area of Apsley is an outer district of Hemel Hempstead and is still a busy commercial centre. The Victorian shops that grew up when it was a mill town now house newsagents, public houses, restaurants, and a range of small businesses. The former mill sites are taken up with supermarkets, retail parks and offices. Housing developments combining the canal side location with the ease of access to Apsley railway station (offering direct access to London Euston) have been very successful.

Agent's information for buyers
