Thought to date from the late 1950's, the property was constructed to good quality Corporation specifications of its day, and in more recent years has been improved by the addition of gas fired radiator central heating and PVCu replacement double glazing. Both kitchen and bathroom areas have been recently refurbished, and an early internal inspection is much advised.

The property is accessibly placed within walking distance of Bloxwich North Railway Station together with frequent and regular transport facilities, schools catering for children of all age groups and places of public worship. Nearby Junction 10 of the M6 Motorway also affords convenient commuting to Birmingham City Centre and access to the wider West Midland conurbation.
