A truly distinctive three-bedroom period home of considerable character, formerly the historic Angel Inn public house, occupying a prominent position on Station Road in Soham.

Believed to date from the late 19th century, this substantial house offers over 1,190 sq.ft. of versatile accommodation arranged across two floors, combining period charm with generous room proportions rarely found in more conventional homes.

The ground floor features a spacious lounge, central dining room ideal for entertaining, custom-made fitted kitchen, practical utility room and cloakroom/WC. Upstairs, the property offers three well-proportioned bedrooms together with a recently renovated family bathroom.

Externally, the property enjoys a private garden and off-road parking for two cars to the rear. The property retains an attractive historic presence, having been identified as a building of local interest within Soham's heritage records. The property formed part of the former Angel Inn, a well-known local public house which served the town for many years before its residential conversion.

Located within easy reach of local amenities, schooling and transport links, this is a rare opportunity to acquire a home with genuine local history and individuality.

Early viewing is highly recommended to appreciate the size and flexibility of accommodation on offer. Picture two is an old photo, not reflecting what is there now just showing what the property was like when it was a public house.
