Williams Harlow Cheam - More than a house, this is a home. Beyond the characterful exterior, the accommodation is charming, modern and spacious. Topped off with a superb location close to village centre and train station with links into London. The vendor has found a property to buy and it should be an easier process for all.

The Property

Vibrating good times, the smart and modern décor feels luxurious and homely. With a neutral colour pallet to the walls and ceilings, the oak floor to much of the house and splashes of colour from feature walls or kitchen cupboards its been decorated with style. You enter via the porch and into the light and airy hallway, with the front facing spacious lounge to the front and the open plan kitchen dining room to the rear it's an easy to use ground floor. Journey through the kitchen and a door leads out into the utility room and ground floor lavatory; both highly practical. The first floor offers three bedrooms, two with built in wardrobes, and bathroom. The sage coloured kitchen with stone work surface really looks the part and importantly works harmoniously with the dining area. Views from the rear rooms overlook the garden help to bring lots of light in.

Outside Space

Two front facing parking spaces lead to the garage and the front door. The landscaping is softened by the side garden. The rear garden is very long, over 150ft, and mature. The patio leads off the house, down steps and into the lawn.

Local Area

The road is a charming hide away which you wouldn't normally go down unless you had good reason. That said its still extremely close the Marsden hospital, Barrow Hedges and Seaton House schools, Banstead, Belmont and Carshalton Beeches village and miles of Down land with bridle trails.

Why You Should Buy

A vibrant home drenched in natural light, offering a spacious interior with no work required, on a popular road close to the train station and village shops. The vendor has found a property to purchase, the garden is mature and exceptionally long, and there is further potential to be realised. This home should be high on your viewing list.

Vendor Thoughts

"As a professional working nearby, proximity to the Royal Marsden, the Institute of Cancer Research and the emerging London Cancer Hub was very important to me. Carshalton Beeches felt like a hidden gem - peaceful, green and village-like, yet exceptionally well connected to central London. With major investment and new jobs expected in the area, it also offers strong long-term appeal."
